10. Update on the 2023 Bismarck-Burleigh Public Health Department's discussions with the Burleigh County Budget Committee and the Burleigh County Commission.

Rena Moch, Bismarck-Burleigh Public Health (BBPH) Director, addressed the Commission regarding the service agreement between BBPH and Burleigh County Commission, Burleigh County Budget Committee, and the 2023 Burleigh County Budget. Director Moch provided a recap of the Burleigh County budget process and noted an increase in requested funds from Burleigh County for the 2023 budget. Director Moch reported that NDCC requires that all land be within a public health unit, and if Burleigh County were to consider leaving the current public health unit, it would require a vote of the residents of Burleigh County. Director Moch closed by saying Burleigh County would like to negotiate a reduction of the proposed fees for 2023.

The commissioners discussed options, including requesting American Rescue Plan (ARPA) funds from Burleigh County to help cover the construction costs of the new Public Health facility noting that 25% of Burleigh County's population resides outside of City limits. It was also noted that Burleigh County received $18 million in ARPA funds during 2021. This amount was based on the population of Burleigh County; Bismarck received $9 million. It was further noted Burleigh County's project list for the use of ARPA funds were all projects outside of Bismarck City limits.

Commissioner Cleary noted there is a disservice to City residents with the current arrangement because City residents are subsidizing Burleigh County's public health budget through higher tax collection than non-City residents.

City Administrator Keith Hunke stated the City requested support from Burleigh County for additional costs related to the service agreement and additional funds for the new public health facility through the County's budgeting process. Administrator Hunke noted that the County denied these requests and approved their preliminary budget, which indicates additional expenses cannot be added for 2023 at this time.

Commissioner Zenker motioned to proceed as directed for the initial ask of $332,049 from Burleigh County in support of the 2023 public health budget, and Commissioner Marquardt seconded.

Upon a roll call vote, all voted aye.

M/C.

The Commission discussed requesting ARPA funds for the construction of the new public health facility and to provide options for the County's consideration, including a facility fee to cover the costs associated with providing services to Burleigh County. It was noted that the fee would need to be calculated on the use of the facility and the public health staff's time to provide the services to Burleigh County.

Commissioner Cleary motioned to request $2.1 million from Burleigh County's ARPA distribution to cover 20% of the cost of the public health facility construction and to include additional options for funding a separate facility fee, and Commissioner Marquardt Seconded.

Upon a roll call vote, all voted aye.

M/C.

11. Receive and review Mayor Schmitz's guiding principles for leading the City of Bismarck.

Mayor Schmitz presented his guiding principles for leading the City to best serve the citizens to the Commission. Commissioner Zenker noted that he agreed with the document's purpose but had concerns with acknowledging all calls and emails within 24 hours as the Commissioners have to be cautious of open meeting regulations. The Commissioners discussed ways to ensure that they are acknowledging requests without creating open meetings.

12. Request by Commissioner Zenker to Rescind July 12, 2022, Action

Commissioner Zenker addressed the Commission with a request to rescind the action regarding the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Risk Map made at the July 12, 2022, City Commission Meeting.

Commissioner Zenker made a motion to rescind the motion made at the July 12, 2022, FEMA discussion, and Commissioner Splonskowski seconded.

The Commission discussed the elevation of a current manufactured home that has been elevated to the new standard established by FEMA. The Commission expressed concerns about existing homes being grandfathered in at their current elevations. Existing homes would not be required to change; however, any new homes moving into the new mobile home park would be subject to new regulations if adopted.

Upon a roll call vote, all voted aye.

M/C.

Commissioner Zenker asked City Engineer Gabe Schell to address the Commission. Engineer Schell noted that the City, at a minimum, should regulate development within the floodway because it poses a greater risk to property owners.

Community Development Director Ben Ehreth addressed the Commission's concerns about existing manufactured homes being grandfathered into areas where the flood plain would be applied. Director Ehreth confirmed that existing homes would not be required to meet the new regulations; however, any new homes moved into the park would be subject to the current regulations. Director Ehreth informed the Commission that the Community Development Department mailed approximately 1,000 notices of the proposed flood plain changes and of the meeting hosted by FEMA on August 16, 2022. Director Ehreth closed by saying that a significant change in the draft documents notes that FEMA will not certify the flood control structure along South Washington Street and the drainage ditch. Because the flood control structure was not originally built to FEMA standards, FEMA does not recognize it as an official means of mitigating flooding.

Director Ehreth informed the Commission that FEMA is the only agency providing flood insurance for property owners. If the City of Bismarck chooses not to participate in FEMA's mapping, the end result would likely be the inability of property owners to obtain flood insurance. All federally-backed mortgages require flood insurance. Without flood insurance in a community, the City would not be eligible for flood recovery funds such as the millions of dollars received after the 2011 Missouri River Flood.

Commissioner Zenker requested a report of the August 16, 2022, FEMA meeting be presented at the August 23, 2022, City Commission meeting.
